DETAILS OF LYNCHING OF FOUR CATTLEMEN MONDAY IN OKLAHOMA

DALLAS, Tex., April 20.—In a special, Joe Carter, one of the four guards on duty at the time of the lynching of four cattlemen at Ada, Okla., yesterday, is quoted as follows: "The first I knew of the presence of the mob was at 2:10, when six masked men suddenly appeared at the waiting room in the run around the cells and covered me and Jim McCarty with their guns. McCarty and I held the watch for this part of the night. They told us to step aside and hand over the jail keys. I told them we have no keys; that a gentleman in another room had the keys."

"At this moment about twenty more men appeared thronging through the hall of the courthouse and from everywhere else, it seemed to me, saying, 'Keep quiet, men, and give up the keys.' The men were all masked. They kept me and McCarty under cover of their guns and proceeded to wake up Guards Walter Goins and Bob Nestor and took the keys away from them. Nestor rose from his bed with his gun and the masked men hit him over the head with their gun and left him stunned. The men forced Goins to open the heavy doors to the cells. They then took Miller from his cell and fastened a rope around his neck and bound his hands at his back with wire."

C. S. JORDAN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING WIFE

HAS BEEN IN JAIL SINCE LAST SEPTEMBER AND MADE A CONFESSION.

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—Chestnut S. Jordan of Somerville, who has been in jail since last September, when he was arrested and confessed that he killed his wife and cut her body to pieces, hoping to hide the crime, will be placed on trial tomorrow in the Superior Court of Middlesex County. It is believed that the defense will base its case on a plea of temporary insanity. Jordan, who is a young man of about thirty years of age, is a brother-in-law of Jesse R. Livermore, the New York cotton speculator, and it is understood that the Livermore millions will be used freely in an effort to keep Jordan from going to the electric chair. Three of the ablest criminal lawyers of Massachusetts have been engaged to conduct the defense.

The killing of Mrs. Jordan last September attracted widespread attention owing to the circumstances surrounding the crime and the subsequent arrest of the young husband. The murder was one of the most gruesome with which the Boston police ever had to deal. The victim, Honora Jordan, was an actress, aged twenty-three years. Jordan killed the woman in their home in Somerville. Then he went out and bought a butcher's knife and a saw, with which he dismembered the body. He severed his wife's head, also the legs. Then he tried to destroy all trace of them by burning them in the furnace of his home.

He put the rest of the body in a trunk and came into Boston with the ghastly burden, stopping at a boarding house preliminary to taking a steamer for New York. It was his intention to get rid of what remained of his wife by throwing the torso into the water while the boat was en route for New York.

The cabman who took Jordan and his trunk to the boarding-house became suspicious about its contents while carrying the trunk into the house. Its weight made him think it contained stolen silverware, and the nervous manner of Jordan satisfied him the man was a burglar. There had been many robberies of silverware recently. The cabman, believing he was on the trail of the thief, went to the police and told them of the mysterious trunk.

Officers were detailed to go to the boarding-house and investigate. When they reached the house Jordan was not in, but the policemen were shown the room Jordan had engaged and found the trunk. The police did not open the trunk.

About 5 o'clock Jordan returned. Accosted in the hallway by the officer he at first denied his identity. Later he admitted who he was. Asked about his trunk he denied he had one. He was ordered to his room by the officers, however, and commanded to open the trunk. Jordan did not appear in the least nervous or alarmed, but hesitated to open the trunk. It was not until after considerable argument on the part of the officer that he produced the key and inserted it in the lock. Turning his head to one side so he could not see inside the trunk, Jordan threw up the cover and then sank back on his knees, burying his face in his hands and sobbing.

The police staggered back aghast at the sight disclosed. In the open trunk before them lay a sickening mass of hacked flesh, a woman's torso filling the greater part of the trunk, while pieces of flesh from other parts of the body were stuffed into the corners, the entire interior of the trunk being bespattered with blood.

Jordan submitted without protest to the handcuffs and was taken to the station. There he speedily regained his composure and made a full confession of the killing. He said that after his marriage he and his wife went on the vaudeville stage. On account of his poor health he gave up their engagements and returned to Somerville to live. Mrs. Jordan, according to the husband, had taken to drinking and he said, was associated with other men and he became jealous. It was in a jealous quarrel that the trouble started which ended in the death of the wife. Jordan declared that his wife struck him first, that he then knocked her down and was effrised to find he had killed her. That happened at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Fearing discovery of his crime, he conceived the idea of cutting the body up, taking it away on one of the steamers and throwing the parts overboard and then reporting to the police that his wife had left him. Jordan, according to his confession, while dazed at the awfulness of his deed, went about in a careful manner carrying out his plans, which were frustrated twenty-four hours later by the suspicions of the cabman. During his long period in jail Jordan has maintained the same comparative calm that he exhibited when he was arrested and apparently feels confident that he will get off.

CLEVELAND, O., April 20.—A special election is being held today in the Twenty-first Congressional district to choose a successor to Theodore E. Burton, recently elevated to the Senate. The Republicans appear confident of the election of their candidate, James H. Cassidy, former secretary to Mr. Burton. M. B. Excel is the candidate of the Democrats.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

W. C. Davis, of Jasper, Ala., has announced his candidacy to succeed Congressman Richmond P. Hobson of the Sixth Alabama district. Mrs. Alma V. Lafferty, the only woman member of the Colorado legislature, has introduced fifteen bills, all of which have passed the House.

In the recent elections in Connecticut the city of Hartford went license by an overwhelming majority, greatly to the surprise and disappointment of the prohibitionists.

Grant B. Dimick, a prominent lawyer and politician of Oregon City, has announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Oregon in 1910.

Friends of ex-Governor J. Frank Hanly of Indiana say that formal announcement will be made soon of his candidacy for United States Senator against Albert J. Beveridge. Mr. Hanly, it is asserted, believes his battle for temperance will give him a good lead.

The Connecticut legislature has taken action which makes Lieutenant Governor Frank B. Weeks acting governor during Governor Lilley's illness. Hitherto no provision for such a contingency has existed in Connecticut.

Former Vice President Fairbanks plans to sail from San Francisco on May 16 for a trip of one year's duration, to include in his itinerary Hawaii, Japan, China, the Philippines, Australia, Africa and a large section of Europe. His family will accompany him.

The Republican State convention of Pennsylvania will meet at Harrisburg June 16, but with quite a reduction in its representation. The number of delegates is based upon the vote polled at the last presidential election, when there was apparently much less padding of the ballot boxes than in 1904.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has completed arrangements for the publication of a monthly magazine, to be known as the National Monthly, and which will be devoted to the interests of the Democratic party in the nation. The first number of the magazine will make its appearance under date of May 1.

Thomas Rudolph is still a practicing lawyer and local judge at the age of ninety-five, in Shippensburg, Pa. He was recently nominated for his judicial position by the Democrats and so popular was he that no candidate was put up against him by the Republicans. If he finishes his term he will be ninety-nine years old.

James R. Mann, who prevented the introduction in the House of Representatives of the petition of Chicago women for a reduction of the duties on leather gloves and cotton hosiery, has represented the Second Illinois district in Congress since 1897, and for several years has been conspicuous in Illinois politics. He has served as chairman of the Illinois State Republican convention, and for four years he was a member of the Chicago city council.

There seems to be a very general impression in the inner circles of Tammany Hall that the organization should nominate next fall William T. Jerome for district attorney. Four years ago Jerome, single handed and alone, won a re-election to the district attorney's office by over 16,000 plurality, defeating the Tammany, Independence League, Republican and Socialist candidates. It has been frequently said that had Jerome been renominated in 1905 at Tammany's hands there would have been no Democratic State convention nominating Hearst in 1906.

The pilfering of a full set of perfectly good patriarchal whiskers—the first crime of its kind ever recorded—has just led to all sorts of complications. The man who took them is in jail and the man from whom they were taken is without a home. The loser of the hirsute adornments is particularly sad because of the fact that he had worn them for 40 years. Recently he entered an East Side barber shop and having given careful instructions that his whiskers be trimmed, took advantage of the opportunity for a nap. On awakening

CANINE PRINCE DOES THE WINDY CITY

FAMOUS ST. BERNARD DOG FROM SEATTLE SUCCUMBS TO A BAD COLD.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Prince, a St. Bernard dog, belonging to Francis Drazo of Seattle, started from New York last week across the continent to see his master. During a few days' stop over in Chicago he contracted a bad cold, which quickly developed into pneumonia. Although E. C. Sullivan, under whose care Prince was seeing the sights, summoned a veterinary surgeon, the big St. Bernard died. Mr. Sullivan immediately planned a funeral for the animal, which had saved no less than nine lives and had taken prizes at shows throughout the country. Prince has been laid away in a copper-lined coffin decorated with flowers. Services were conducted by Mr. Sullivan and a party of friends.

NEW YORK LETTER

NEW YORK, April 20.—Aroused over the killing of more than a hundred persons by automobiles during the past fifteen months in this city, and by the rapidly increasing number of serious accidents caused by the recklessness of the drivers of cars, a number of prominent citizens have inaugurated a movement for the vigorous prosecution of offenders against speed laws. It was felt that a condition of affairs under which more persons were killed on the streets of New York than during the entire Spanish-American war was one that demanded a remedy. It is intended to make the movement just initiated, nationwide in extent and to keep it up until the speed-criminal is exterminated or reformed. The great majority of automobilists who feel that as a class they have suffered from the excesses of a few reckless drivers are joining heartily in the crusade against the modern juggernaut. The Automobile Club of America, which is recognized as the most influential body of motorists in the country, has taken action to discourage carelessness and violation of speed laws. One of the first results of the agitation that has been started has been to stimulate the metropolitan police force to unwonted activity, while the local judges have done their part by dealing severely with all cases of overspeeding brought before them. Altogether it begins to look as though the diversion of running down pedestrians in New York streets may soon become too dangerous to be attractive even to the most hardened automaniac.

New York seems to be invention mad. Every new device in the field of scientific advance from flying machines to needles finds quick and enthusiastic reception here. This is in marked contrast to the attitude of only a few years ago when the city's attitude was one of skepticism which laughed even at the telephone to say nothing of many other inventions which it now uses. Father Knickerbocker has experienced a change of heart in this respect which bids fair to make this city the scientific center of the country. Already, for example, two companies for the manufacture of commercial airdships have been organized here, and the Hotel Astor will soon have in operation here on its roof an airship station where the visitor who cares to drop in for tea by the aerial route can draw up in his air carriage. The enthusiasm for wireless telegraphy, having captured the city, has spread to the suburbs. At the Hotel Gramatan, in the fashionable Westchester residence district outside the city, the business communications incident to the operation of the hotel are conducted by wireless and the wealthy persons who make it their home have also taken up the fad of talking to friends in cities equipped with wireless stations or on board incoming and outgoing steamers. Another craze is for the use of carrier pigeons, many persons preferring to use these birds for the interchange of letters instead of the regular mails. Although the city seems to have been seized with a desire to live in the air as much as possible, and it only remains for some one to discover a way of living on it as well.

he was horrified to find that the barber instead of a trimming had given him a clean shave. To add to his trouble his wife, who like himself is a believer in the Hebrew faith, refused to admit him on his return home, holding that the Scripture forbade his being shaved. He was hooted in the street and finally took his trouble to a magistrate. The barber was finally found and lodged in jail, but no solution of the problem has yet been discovered. Only nature can restore the whiskers and the barber does not appear to be guilty of any crime yet tabulated. The only resource of the whiskerless and homeless patriarch, say the lawyers, is in a suit to recover damages, in which event a commercial value in beards will be established here for the first time.
